AHO Task Force Team Story

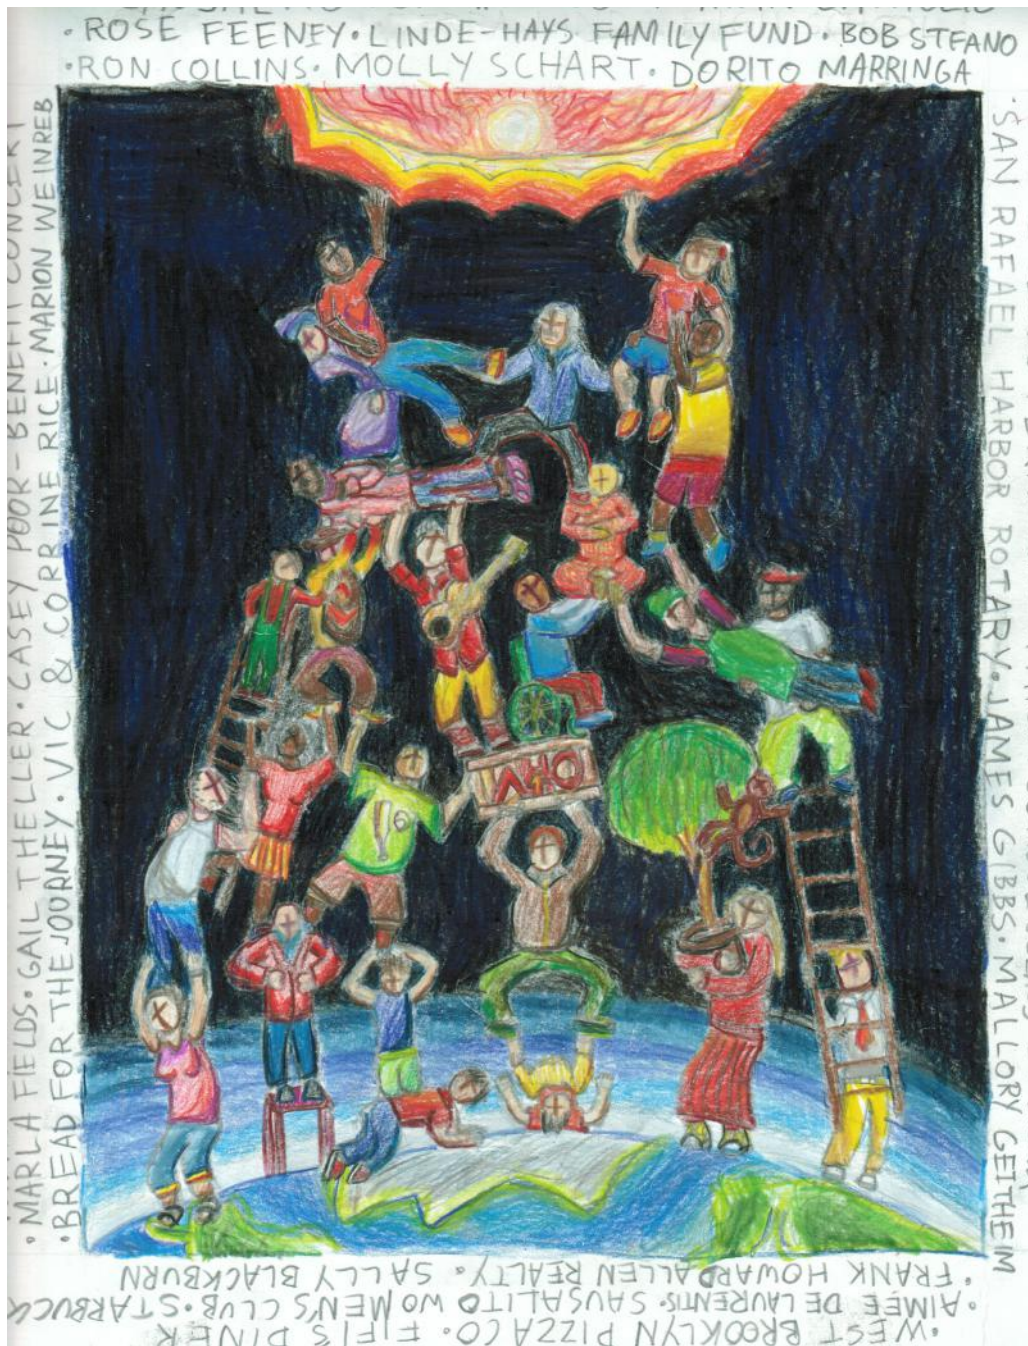

The “Seasons of Hope Singing Tree” traveling mural is the vision and inspiration of the AHO Youth Task Force Team, comprised of homeless and at-risk youth served by Ambassadors of Hope and Opportunity (AHO). The mural is the culmination of a year-long process where the youth Team engaged 30 private, public, alternative high schools, middle schools and colleges and 12,000 youth from 50 countries to participate and bring awareness to crisis of youth homelessness and the plight of the planet.

The AHO Task Force Team was born in November 2007 when Kevin Ippolito, Amy Phelan, Mario Rangel and Ali Fedef wanted to “give back” for the help they had received. Their mission was to unite young people ages 16 to 25 in Marin, that were previously homeless, at-risk of homelessness and other socially conscious youth from all socio-economic backgrounds with the goal of designing youth-led projects to foster awareness and bring funding to the organization that was helping them succeed.

In 5 years, this team has grown to over 25 members. They have produced dozens of successful projects and engaged the community and businesses to create awareness about youth homelessness in Marin. A few of those projects include; 8 Car Washes for a Cause, the first ever Youth Connect (where they brought together all the resources a homeless young person would need in one location), Youth Concert, Festival for a Cause and the first youth-led Marin County homeless census. In 2011, Andrea Perleson, a former homeless youth, was chosen to represent Marin County in the Donald Trump Miss CA Pageant with a platform of youth homelessness.

Since 2007, the Team has secured $65,000 in funding and over $100,000 in pro bono and in-kind support for their projects.
